hidden europe regularly reviews issues of culture, communities and travel across Europe. The magazine is published thrice annually, in mid-March, mid-July and mid-November. It is published by Gardner & Kries GbR. Our printers are Druckerei Conrad GmbH, 13509 Berlin, Germany. A one year subscription (three issues) is €20 within Europe and €26 elsewhere. See our website at www.hiddeneurope.co.uk for more details.

JUST WORTH NOTING

We really do our level best to make sure that the information published in hidden europe is accurate. And that applies equally to everything that appears on our website: www.hiddeneurope.co.uk. But well do we know that things can change. A hotel we remember with affection may have turned into a dive, and of course public transport timetables change. As our article on Carpathian connections in this issue (pages 8–10) shows, entire rail routes may close. So always check details before setting out, and bear in mind that savvy local advice may be worth much more than what you read in a guidebook. If you feel that we have made a mistake somewhere, please do let us know. But do note that we cannot accept any responsibility for loss or damage occasioned by material included, or anything we omitted to mention, in our magazine or on our website.

A WORD OF THANKS

Our thanks go, as ever, to those we met on our journeys. We offer a special vote of thanks to Miroslava Šeregová Hnatková who was a star in the manner in which she assisted us in making arrangements to stay at offbeat places in the Carpathian region. Miroslava works with a new agency, set up just 18 months ago, dedicated to attracting visitors to rural eastern Slovakia where it has sometimes been hard to get visitors to venture beyond the principal city of Košice. COPYRIGHT

The copyright of all texts in the magazine resides with the original authors. If a text is unattributed (ie. most of the texts in this issue), then the words were penned by Nicky Gardner who asserts her right to be recognised as the author of those articles. As for photos, if they are not otherwise credited then they come from the hidden europe collection. The copyright of all other photos rests with the original photographers; a credit adjacent to each image identifies the photographer. Please do not just wantonly copy material from hidden europe. If you are interested in securing reprint permissions, then we will always do what we can to help.
